

The East Brunswick Senior Center
cordially invites you to:

POETRY MONDAYS

with Shelley

Beginning
Monday,
February 7th
1:00 – 2:30 PM
Room A

A poem is an Aladdin's lamp, it's been said. Though small in size, it houses a powerful genie. It's that perfect little story that tells a bigger one. For anyone looking to embark on their memoirs, or express what it feels like to be alive, a poem is a wonderful place to begin that journey.

Join us as we engage in lively discussion with master poets past and present, and explore what makes poetry poetry. NJSCA teaching artist/poet Shelley Benaroya will show you how easy it is to craft a new and surprising poem each time we meet, even if you've never written a poem before. This new year, why not awaken the creative spark that lives inside you?

Monday, February 7th: The Poetry of Color

Monday, March 14th: With These Hands: My Life as a Poem

© The Writing Center for Creative Aging 2022

Image: The Dialogue Between Painting and Poetry by Sonia Delaunay, courtesy <http://visionsofthecity.com/Delaunay.htm>