

Writing About the Great Unknown: Poems, Stories, and Conversations with the Universe

An Online Workshop at Rutgers' Osher Lifelong Learning Institute this Spring

In this four-week writing workshop, we'll strive to give expression to those private musings and thoughts about our place in the universe. Through curated readings (as well as imagery from the James Webb and Hubble Space Telescopes, Voyager and Cassini missions), we'll engage in lively conversation with poets, writers, scientists and philosophers who have sought to understand the mysteries of the cosmos. Class time will be provided to begin as well as share work. Beginning and experienced writers are welcome. If you've ever looked up at the night sky with wonder and want for expression, please join us and add your voice to our weekly discussions.

Thursdays 10:00 AM – 12:00 PM EST
